This is an Annual Festival of Celebrations of The Individual, The Family, The Community, The Civic Society and The Humanity of All Humanity. The idea is for people to walk to an open green space in London on a Summer Sunday, to begin with, from all across London, but soon from across the UK and, all across the World. The walkers begin as they are: individuals, families and groups and in this, agencies take part, supporting and empowering all others, who, do not get to such celebrations because of the challenges they face. They leave home and using public transport, get to a place outside the perimeter of the Venue, five miles away and, from there, they walk along the pavement and talk and speak with other people walking with them and get to the Festival venue.

It will be a day long Festival, where people will be encouraged to speak, interact and connect with other people and not just stay in their own 'groups' and at the venue there shall be hundreds and hundreds and, one day, thousands and thousands of humanicsxian volunteers connecting, relating, enabling, inspiring all participants. Once they day is done, the Walkers begin walking back to the place from where they had set out walking and from there get the public transport to go home. In this, each individual will be encouraged to make new connections and contacts and exchange communications details of, at least, ten new people with whom they shall keep in touch and make friends so that the following year they all come to the Walk as a larger 'family' of humanity. This, they all, then, use to start walking every day throughout the year and make it into natural part of their being in reality and in real society with real people and real humanity. In time, it will develop into a whole day's walk: walking from home to the venue and back again from anywhere in London.

And at this Festival people forget about their phones and gadgets and bring with them books to read, music to listen to and pens and notebooks so that they can write down anything they need!

At this Festival The Foundation will encourage every individual person of humanity to be in reality and being there they are to consciously try to be observant, alert and mindful and in doing so they are using all their faculties and senses to have an imprint of the reality. Not getting busy with taking photos, not wasting attention in getting videos and posting and uploading things to the Distorteddia. Reality, life and existence are where we are! Let the human minds live in its awe-inspiring infinity unfolding itself. Rise, reach, sing, touch, connect, bond, relate, form, converse and write the poetry of your soul on the souls you meet and greet and let them do the same with your soul and let that poetry be of humanity naturale: an infinity unfolding itself.
